SANTA FE WOULD IMPROVE ROAD

Priceless Treasures of Frijoles Canyon Would Be Opened to Tourists By Highway; Question Considered.

Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 8.—A feature of the meeting of the Santa Fe Chamber of Commerce held Tuesday night and which was largely attended was the discussion of the completion of the road from Santa Fe to the Rito de Frijoles canyon, opening up the priceless treasures of this region to tourists and bringing wealth to the city, which has such a great attraction.

No action was taken on the matter for in those days when the railroad pass had been eliminated few feel willing to stand the expense of railroad fare and hotel bills, and the cities as a rule extend merely a cordial invitation to delegates to attend, without furnishing them free subsistence.

Prof. Hubert F. Aeslund of the department of education called the attention of the members to the teachers' convention which will be held here November 16 to 19. It is planned to give them a warm welcome.

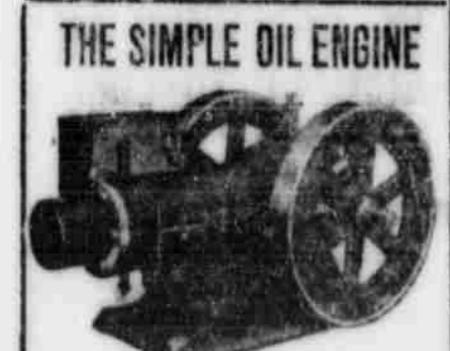

BOER GENERAL BACK FROM OLD MEXICO

B. J. Viljoen, Patron of Transvaal, Advisor to Madero, and New Mexico Farmer Says Liberator Will Win.

Special Correspondence to the Herald
Las Cruces, N. M., Sept. 8.—That Madero can not help but be elected president of Mexico and his power with the people complete is the opinion of B. J. Viljoen, late general in the army of the Transvaal, who has escaped from Tejanacan, where he and Mrs. Viljoen have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Francisco I. Madero, Jr. for the last month. General Viljoen was nothing but the Mexican revolutionary leader during the attack on Ciudad Juarez, but since has had no official connection with the government.

For the sum of $200 it was estimated the road could be completed. It will be remembered that a portion of the road was recently finished at an expense of $175. The members of the Chamber of commerce took no action last night but it looks as though the project will meet with favor, considering the constant demand made by sightseers and scientists to get out to the Rito and back in a hurry. Many people come to Santa Fe and never visit the Rito for the simple reason that they fear the trip will take up too much time and too much extra.

Governor Prince pointed out the important matters affecting New Mexico that will be brought up at these meetings.

General and Mrs. Viljoen departed last night for their country home at La Mesa, N. M.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY MAKES COAL LAND VALUATIONS

Withdrawn Lands Are Examined and Classified As to Amount of Recoverable Mineral.

Washington, Sept. 8.—A recent announcement of the work done by the geological survey under the present scheme of classifying government coal land states that 56,882,114 acres of withdrawn land had been on August 1, examined in geological detail and classified.

The lands found to contain workable coal beds aggregated 16,573,278 acres. These lands in 48-acre tracts have been appraised by the survey at a total valuation of $71,392,387, the prices ranging from the minimum figure stated in the coal law—$10 of $20 per acre, according to whether the land is located within 15 miles of the railroads—or figures of over $400 an acre where the thickness of the coal beds may aggregate 60, 80, or 100 feet, or even more.

The government valuations accord in a general way with the market values of private coal lands in the west, although as a matter of fact they are somewhat more liberal in the purchase. Four hundred dollars an acre may seem a high price for Uncle Sam's coal land, which a few years ago might have been bought for $10 an acre. However, the geological survey's plan of classification and valuation contemplates that the government should receive at least a reasonable return for its coal, although the most useful rock mineral in its possession.

It is understood that an acre with, say, a 40-foot coal bed of seam contains approximately 72,000 tons of coal, of which 46,000 tons are considered to be certainly recoverable, and an acre with 100 feet of coal contains 100,000 tons of recoverable coal, the price asked by the government, the price asked by the government, seems, on the other hand, hardly sufficient. On land having a thickness of 60 feet of coal $100 would be five cents of a cent per recoverable ton. In reality, under the survey regulations, which consider depth of the coal, number of beds, and other missing details, the price used ranges from 2 cents a ton for the most easily accessible recoverable coal of the best grade down to a small fraction of a cent a ton for the poorer and less accessible coal.

At the minimum prices which were in effect before the government withdrawals of coal lands, the 16,573,278 acres above referred to would have been priced at only $26,652,421, the difference in favor of the public revenue at the new prices being therefore $445,346,196. Under the provisions of the national irrigation law the proceeds from all sales of coal land are credited to the "reclamation fund," so that government irrigation has, as it were, a considerable fund for future operations.

The Rejota faction may cause some disturbances, but Madero's power with the people is complete. As far as I could see, they have absolute confidence in him. Reyes pictures were torn down in Mexico City and Torreon, and even in Tejanacan, long before the riots of last week at the capital. That General Reyes can away from Mexico when so little has had the opportunity to do what Madero did, and that he was returning to Mexico from France to take charge of the army against the revolutionaries makes his candidacy as a reform leader, more or less of a joke.

However, General Viljoen admits Madero's mistake in not continuing military movements after the fall of Juarez, and accompanying a complete reorganization. "I myself also advised him to sign the peace pact," says the general. "But that was wrong in the light of present events. Yes, a complete revolution would have been better, cheaper and easier in the end. But Madero's political revolution will succeed in spite of any mistakes. He can't be beaten, but his road may be hard."

That there has only been a complete revolution in three states will make no difference with Madero's chances save the South African gen-
